REFERENCES

Yak Trax Yak Trax is a brand name. You do not need to purchase the brand name.

By "Yak Trax", we mean crampons to your boots with miniature spikes underneath.

Do not purchase the crampons with the COILS underneath.

A mask that you would wear if you wanted to commit a bank robbery.

This helps keep you warm at higher elevations.

Mostly used on Day 6,7,8 of the climb.

Gaiters Photo representation of Gaiters.

These are used and secured around the base of your boot along your ankle and leg. These help keep any branches or trees from scratching your legs. These also help with any fine dust or small rocks that may fall into your boot. Very useful during your descent as well as the rainforest zones on Day 1/2

Head Lamp This is used at night time on any night of our trek.

You will need to turn it on to walk around at night or go to the bathroom. We also use this on Day 7 on our 9-Day Lemosho Western-Breach Route Make sure to bring extra batteries with you. Keep them warm during your climb.

Electrical Adapter Type G

This is used at the hotel before and after your climb. You can use this to plug into while you are at the hotel.

Sleeping Bag Liner You put this in your sleeping bag as an extra layer between you and the sleeping bag.

Most are 1 size fits all. If you have our All-Inclusive Package, we use Marmot Trestle Elite 0 Sleeping bags. These are mummy style sleeping bags. You can pick a sleeping bag liner with a mummy style.

Ziploc Bags These are great to put dirty clothes in during your climb.

This will help you keep your dirty clothes separated from your clean clothing.

Gloves We recommend bringing 2 pairs of gloves.

Thermal Pair

Climbing Pair

One is used more for gripping and climbing. The other is used for warmth at higher elevations. We do not recommend "mittens" and prefer each finger of the glove to be able to moved on its own.
